Use this full-stack prompt structure to practice:

“Act as a [persona]. Write a [format] for [audience] that [task], based on the following context: [insert context]. Use a [tone] tone and reference this example: [insert exemplar].”

For example (AI Prompts for Career Exploration):

"I want you to act as my Executive Career Coach and Talent Strategist. Can you put together a personalized career pivot roadmap for me, a mid-to-senior level professional looking for a fresh start, that helps me figure out where my experience actually fits in today's market?

Here's the context: My background is in [Field], but I'm really passionate about [Interest], and my non-negotiable is [Value, e.g., work-life balance].

Based on that, I need you to:

1. Identify five high-growth paths I might not have considered.
2. Be honest about the skill gaps I need to close for each one.
3. Lay out a 12-month game plan, including the right certifications and who I should be networking with.

Let's keep the tone smart and analytical, but encouraging, like a mentor who wants to see me win. For the roadmap, follow a quarterly rhythm like this: 'Q1: Focus on the heavy lifting with certifications; Q2: Start building a public portfolio; Q3: Hit the networking trail; Q4: Go all-in on applications and the final pivot.'"
